Nick Amigone, Partner of Amulet, commented, “We expect pharma to further expand its use of digital channels over the next five years, as the industry more fully appreciates the power of this medium to influence patients and healthcare providers at various points in the care continuum. We are excited to partner with Mike Cunnion and his experienced management team to leverage Remedy’s large and growing base of blue-chip, global healthcare partners. Remedy’s ability to deliver a high-value audience to its pharma and healthcare partners will be critical as we look to expand Remedy’s business footprint via organic growth and strategic M&A.”

Avi Uttamchandani, Principal of Amulet, added, “Amulet is differentiated in our ability to bring extensive financial resources and healthcare experience to our portfolio companies. We see a tremendous opportunity to combine our healthcare expertise with Remedy’s portfolio of digital assets and best-in-class content.
